DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in-

(1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effect under this subsection of a national application published under section 122(b) only if the international application designating the United States was published under Article 21(2)(a) of such treaty in the English language; or

(2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that a patent shall not be deemed filed in the United States for the purposes of this subsection based on the filing of an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a).

2. Claims 1-3, 11, 17, 18, 32, and 34^{§35} rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Wei et al (US 6,369,660).

The reference by Wei et al discloses a PLL with monitoring circuit (see figures 3 and 4), and col. 5, line 19-45, describing the circuit which comprises an edge detector (114), a conductive circuit (116) with inherent resistance within the switching devices so as to charge/discharge the capacitor (150); an indicator circuit (Schmitt type comparator is shown) which provides an indication level based on the charge and a threshold setting. The method steps being inherent.

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

3. Claims 13-16, and 28-31 and 35 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Rizzo(US 4,787,097).

The reference by Rizzo discloses a Frequency lock system which includes a phase detector circuit(12), see figure 3, and col. 6, an oscillator(16), a frequency detector(41), and monitor circuit(20) with selection output (32). The phase detector is allowed to operate if the oscillator frequency and input data frequency are within a certain margin(see abstract).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

4. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

5. Claim 12 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Wei et al.

The reference by Wei et al discloses a PLL with monitoring circuit(see figures 3 and 4), and col. 5, line 19-45, describing the circuit which comprises an edge detector(114), a conductive circuit(116) with inherent resistance within the switching devices so as to charge/discharge the capacitor(150); an indicator circuit(Schmitt type comparator is shown) which provides an indication level based on the charge and a threshold setting .

Art Unit: 2817

The reference does not show a mixer type phase detector/combiner, however, it is notoriously well known in the art that the mixer type detector is a conventional PLL element used to combine two input signals and generate the desired error signal via a loop filter.

In light of the above it would have been obvious for one of ordinary skill in the art to have recognized that the general phase detector may be implemented as a conventional mixer to obtain the desired error signal for PLL application as is notoriously well known in the art.

Allowable Subject Matter

6. Claims 4-10 and 19-27 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.
